FREE Online iPhone Application Course Offered Through North Jersey Partners

Newark, NJ – Have an idea for an iPhone application but don't know how to make it happen or can't afford to take a course? North Jersey Partners has teamed up with the New Jersey Institute of Technology (NJIT) to offer FREE tuition for an online iPhone Application Development Course (http://adultlearner.njit.edu/admissions/prospective/iphone\_entry.php). The 10-week online course begins on October 19, 2009 and is taught by an NJIT instructor. NJIT will also award a 3.0 Continuing Education Units (CEU) certificate.

The 30-hour online training course teaches students, who are computer literate, what they need to know to design and implement iPhone and iPod Touch software using the Apple Software Development Kit. They learn how to create and deploy iPhone and iPod Touch applications on the software simulator and hardware devices. Participants practice submitting their applications to the Apple AppStore so the Apps can potentially be offered by Apple as paid, downloadable commercial software packages.

Those interested in applying for this very popular course are required to text IPHONE to 35350 and will be given access to the application. The application process runs from October 5-16, 2009. All applicants must have broadband access to the Internet and a Macintosh computer capable of running SDK-OSX Leopard 10.5.7 or higher and an iPhone or iPod Touch.

Fifteen applicants will be selected and preference will be given to those unemployed and underemployed in the northern New Jersey region. Applicants not eligible for free tuition still may register for the October 19 or future courses, and pay tuition, by going to NJIT Adult Learner (<http://online.njit.edu>). The next class begins on November 30, 2009.

This training program is funded by North Jersey Partners through the U.S. Department of Labor Education and Training Administration's WIRED initiative.

North Jersey Partners is an innovative regional partnership of public, private and government organizations collaborating to deliver programs, training, and support to ensure the continuity of a skilled workforce to drive economic growth in northern New Jersey.
